

Can you bundle Disney Plus, Hulu, and Netflix?

Streaming Service Bundles You Should Know

No, you cannot officially bundle Disney Plus, Hulu, and Netflix together under one unified subscription. These three streaming platforms are owned and operated by different companies, which means they function independently with their own pricing, account systems, and content libraries. However, you can still bundle Disney Plus and Hulu—and even add ESPN+—through Disney's own package options. Netflix, on the other hand, must be subscribed to separately. Let's break down how it all works and what options you have if you want to enjoy all three services conveniently.

The Disney Bundle: Disney Plus, Hulu, and ESPN+

Disney offers what's known as The Disney Bundle, a package that allows subscribers to enjoy Disney Plus, Hulu, and ESPN+ together at a discounted rate. This is the closest option available if you want multiple streaming services under one payment.

1. Disney Bundle Duo Basic – This plan includes Disney Plus (with ads) and Hulu (with ads). It's a great choice for viewers who want family-friendly Disney content and more mature shows and movies available on Hulu.
2. Disney Bundle Trio Basic – This plan includes Disney Plus, Hulu, and ESPN+, all with ads. It's perfect for households that enjoy movies, shows, and live sports.
3. Disney Bundle Trio Premium – This version offers Disney Plus and Hulu with no ads, while ESPN+ still includes limited advertising. The ad-free viewing experience makes it the most convenient and seamless bundle.

These bundles can save users between 25% and 40% compared to subscribing to each service separately. They can be activated through either the Disney Plus or Hulu website, and one login can give access across devices.

Why Netflix Isn't Included
